October 2008

Dear Students, Teachers, and Parents,

I hope you enjoyed reading and talking about our first September's Book of the Month, The Brand New Kid. It is my hope that everyone in the East Hills family will share in the love of literacy. By reading, talking and sharing great books we can sharpen our reading and writing skills, become critical thinkers and most of all, engage in thought provoking conversations about the books we read. When I came across October's book, I just couldn't resist sharing it with you!

This month, I chose to present each class with the book, One of Those Days, by Amy Krouse Rosenthal. Have you ever had one of those days such as...

- Favorite Pants Too Short Day
- Fun Thing Canceled Day
- Answer To Everything Is No Day
- Feeling Left Out Day

Take heart-you are not alone. Everyone has "one of those days" sometimes. Luckily, for all of us when the day ends, there's always a brand-new day waiting just outside your window.

I hope you enjoy reading this book as much as I do. Have fun reading and having great conversations about One of Those Days this month and remember...

Everyone has one of those days!

With love,

Ms. Brown
